Mr. Eric P. Newman
400 Washington Street
St. Louis, Missouri

Dear Mr. Newman:

Mr. Donald Tamay of the Chase Manhattan Money Museum tells us that questions put to you on colonial currency will be questions put to the right person.

The enclosed is a copy of a Goodbid sheet recently acquired by the Museum. Can you tell us why this 1779 printing by Hall and Sellers does not appear in the chronological listing in Wayte Raymond, Inc., Standard Paper Money Catalogue? Where can we learn about American early efforts to combat counterfeiting? Is this issue with its blue threads and bits of mica an early effort, or the first effort of its kind? Who first thought of the method?

Whatever you can tell us about the method of printing the leaves, the designer of the bills, the reason for publishing a series with one, two, three, four, five, seven, eight, twenty dollars; then a series with one, two, three, four, five, seventy, eighty, twenty dollars, will be greatly appreciated.

Very sincerely yours,

Louise C. Belden

Winterthur Museum
Winterthur, Delaware

Attention: Mrs.Belden

Gentlemen:

Receipt is acknowledged of your letter of February 1, 1966 inquiring about your double sheet of Continental Currency dated January 14, 1779.

The Standard Paper Money Catalog did not list in a separate section the dates of the various issues of Continental Currency because all of them are included in some detail in the section relating thereto. The 1779 issue is on page 44.

You asked where you could learn about early American efforts to combat counterfeiting and there will be a chapter on this subject in our forthcoming book on early American Currency. In the meantime, however, I am sending you an article on counterfeiting of Continental Currency which I wrote a number of years ago.

You inquired as to whether the blue threads and mica was an early effort or the first effort of its kind. This paper was used on Pennsylvania currency just before the Revolution and was made at the Ivy Mills.

You also asked about the method of printing the leaves. I am enclosing herewith an article written on that subject.

As to the designer of the bills, I suggest that you wait for my forthcoming book which will give you details as to the emblems, mottoes, etc.

To clear up the problem as to denominations, I am sending you a photocopy of the manuscript of my forthcoming book which shows that there are many other denominations in the 1779 issue and the $70 and $80 denominations were substituted at the last minute for the $7 and $8 denominations.

February 8, 1966

Winterthur Museum
Winterthur, Delaware

We hope we have been helpful to you and if you need further details do not hesitate to call upon us.

Incidentally, I would appreciate knowing what early American money you have in your collection; by early American I mean prior to the ratification of the Constitution.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Mr. Newman:

Following our correspondence of February on the subject of the eighteenth-century currency at Winterthur, I enclose a list of our holdings.

Mr. Dobbs' list of his collection, of which I sent you a copy on February 11, was mistaken in regard to the counterfeit note. The only note known by us to be counterfeit is a U.S. Continental Congress May, 1775, $30 note. It is obviously counterfeit even to the unitiated and bears the word "counterfeit" in an eighteenth-century hand.

You request a look at the Delaware pieces. I regret to say that they have been sent to be repaired and put in deacidified paper. They should return before the end of the summer. We will then send you Xerox copies, if you still care to look at them.

We recognize that the collection is not a particularly good one, but as you say, the Pennsylvania holdings are extensive. The enclosed list has the Pennsylvania group divided into issues, and we would be interested to see your comments on it.

Sincerely yours,

Louise C. Belden

Mrs. Gail Belden, Assistant Curator
Winterthur Museum
Winterthur, Delaware

Dear Mrs. Belden:

Thank you, very much, for the schedule of the Colonial paper money which you were nice enough to send us.

There is one item which I would very much like to have a Xerox copy of as promptly as possible as it should be included in my book which is in galley proof at this time. It is Item No.139, August, 1776, New Jersey 6 pence.

Certainly, you have some very scarce pieces in the group, particularly the 17th Pennsylvania item.

As long as you are taking a Xerox of the New Jersey piece, I would appreciate a Xerox of the 3£ shilling Massachusetts piece of December, 1775, as this is probably a counterfeit.

Your Delaware collection seems to be nice and if there are any pieces from 1746 through 1758 which are in very nice condition I might be able to improve my illustrations in my forthcoming book.

I will keep your holdings on record along with the holdings of many other institutions and private collectors so that it is always available to the public.

Thank you for your continued cooperation.

Sincerely yours,

ERIC P. NEWMAN NUMISMATIC

Dear Mr. Newman:

Although the currency was looked for by us the end of June, it has not arrived. A follow-up by Mrs. Wood, who this Monday returned from Europe, finds that nothing has been done. The company says that it has been "swamped."

Mrs. Wood has asked for the return of the items you are interested in and will send you the Xerox copies the minute they come in.

Sincerely yours,

Gail C. Belden

Dear Mr. Newman:

Enclosed are Xerox copies of the currency you requested from Mrs. Belden who is on vacation. Included are what seem to be the best copies of each of our early Delaware items and the three other items you specifically mention. Hopefully you will be able to judge for yourself whether or not our Delaware pieces are better than what you have. I seriously doubt that they are. The Xerox copies look to me to be as faithful an indication of the condition of the original as can be expected.

We're sorry about the delay, but it could not be helped. If you have any further questions I shall be happy to do what I can. If you want photographs an order can be filled in two to three weeks. Charges are:

4 x 6 negative	$5.50
extra print	.55
8 x 10 negative	$11.00
extra print	.55

Again, my apologies for the delay. I shall look forward to seeing your book.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth B. Wood
